A LETTER TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

I'VE JUST SPENT AN AFTERNOON IN POST-PRODUCTION, sitting in an edit bay and watching footage from four great programs that will premiere on The Disney Channel in 1995. These original productions range from a four-hour miniseries and a new Disney Channel Premiere Film to two great shows that continue the tradition of our award-winning Going Home music specials—specials that feature two very diverse and distinguished performers: Elton John and Kenny Rogers.

One hundred fifty years ago, the English novelist Charles Dickens was an industry unto himself. Wildly popular and widely read on both sides of the Atlantic, Dickens was a master of pathos, humor, and suspense who created some of the most vivid characters in English literature. You'll meet a trio of those characters in our adaptation of The Old Curiosity Shop. Dickens's tale juxtaposes innocence with evil: the good, the dear Little Nell with Quilp, who is less a villain than he is a moral monster. There won't be a dry eye left in the house after watching this four-hour miniseries.

Also coming in 1995 is The Four Diamonds, a new Disney Channel Premiere Film. Based on the true story of Chris Millard, the film interweaves a young boy's battle with cancer with the fantasy and adventure fable he created during his illness. It's a remarkable family film that boasts a host of splendid performances.

This past September, we captured two great musical events for The Disney Channel, performances that form the core of two new Going Home specials. With percussionist Ray Cooper, Elton John concluded his 1994 tour with a scorching concert at Los Angeles's Greek Theatre. It was the ultimate Elton John evening, with songs ranging forward and backward in time, from the classic hits of the '70s to the lead single from his upcoming album. Then, a week later, the scene shifted to Los Angeles's new music venue, The House of Blues. There we saw a different side of Kenny Rogers. A performer whose career has ranged from folk to rock and pop to country—he defined the term "crossover artist"—Rogers sang a selection of classic show tunes and ballads featured on his new album Timepiece.

As you can see, The Disney Channel has a roster of great programs coming your way in 1995—and that's just the beginning. On January 1, our year-long celebration of Disney animation begins with Pinocchio. Every month brings another Disney animated classic. And in the weeks ahead, we'll announce two great films—both world television premieres—that will be joining our festival's lineup. Enjoy!

DISNEYLAND CELEBRATES ITS 40th ANNIVERSARY

How many members of The Disney Channel Magazine staff are as old—or older—than Disneyland Park? We shan't tell—like Jack Benny, we're always 39. But on January 1, Disneyland begins its 40th year as a family entertainment landmark. Celebrating its milestone anniversary theme of "40 Years of Adventures," Disneyland is planning a fun-filled year of parades, stage shows, and the grand opening of its newest attraction, The Indiana Jones Adventure. The 40th anniversary will be a colorful one with brilliant Park-wide decor as well as adventure-themed outfits for Disney characters. Special anniversary "magic" will form part of Disneyland's nighttime "Fantasmic!" spectacular. This summer, there will be special anniversary editions to the Park's celebrated Main Street Electrical Parade and famous Fantasy in the Sky fireworks extravaganza. And a whimsical ceremony commemorating the milestone will also be presented daily in the forecourt of Sleeping Beauty Castle.

Disneyland first opened its gates on July 17, 1955. Over the past four decades, the park has hosted more than 300 million guests from all over the world, including countless celebrities and heads of state. It is the original Disney Theme Park—the only one built under the direct supervision of Walt Disney himself.

Holidays in the Park

The holidays are special times at Disneyland Park and at Walt Disney World Resort. The season begins Thanksgiving Day—November 24—and runs to New Year's Day. Both Disneyland and Walt Disney World become holiday playlands complete with Yuletide decor, Santa Claus, carolers, and a host of special holiday events. If you can't visit California or Florida, The Disney Channel will present its annual special lineup of holiday programs in December—and on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Walt once said, "Disneyland will never be completed—as long as there is imagination left in the world." And four decades later, Disney Imagineers will once again show the world that, at Disneyland, the adventure is just beginning. An all-new major attraction debuts early this year to celebrate the 40th anniversary and to entertain yet another generation of visitors.

Indiana Jones, the intrepid explorer in the film produced by George Lucas, will come to life in a new runaway thrill ride scheduled to open in early 1995. The Indiana Jones Adventure will feature a harrowing expedition through the ancient ruins of the Temple of The Forbidden Eye in Adventureland.

Stay tuned for more on The Indiana Jones Adventure in our next issue. We'll also keep you up to date in future issues as Disneyland celebrates "40 Years of Adventures" in 1995.

TOM TRYON & TEXAS JOHN SLAUGHTER

Of all the shows made for the DISNEY TELEVISION series, the longest running was Texas John Slaughter, with a total of 17 episodes airing between 1958 and 1961. As he did with all his anthology television shows, Walt had the foresight to film the series in color, even though they were being aired in black and white at the time. Walt selected TOM TRYON to portray his heroic Texan. A promising young actor who began his career on the stage, Tryon had been discovered by producer Hal Wallis, who brought him to Hollywood for a screen test in 1955. After starring in a number of movies and television shows, Tryon came to the attention of Walt Disney, who chose him to play the Western hero. Walt's choice proved popular: soon after the series debuted, letters poured in to the Studio praising

Holiday Releases EXCITING NEW CD-ROM ENTERTAINMENT

In time for the holidays, Disney Software offers two multimedia entertainment packages on CD-ROM. The Lion King Animated StoryBook draws young readers into the magical world of their favorite Disney characters. Quality Disney animation, beloved film characters, and orchestrated music put children inside the story as it unfolds. Viewers interact with the stories by exploring the pages, playing games, and participating in other fun activities.

(The Lion King Animated StoryBook is available on the Windows CD-ROM platform; a Macintosh version appears in early 1995. The Aladdin Activity Center offers discovery and fun as kids play games, work puzzles, create art projects, conduct musical quests and more—with specially selected segments of the hit Disney animated classic Aladdin. The Aladdin Activity Center is available on both Windows and Mac CD-ROM platforms.

Walt Disney Pictures TIM ALLEN STARS IN "THE SANTA CLAUSE"

What happens when a divorced dad investigates a strange clatter on his roof on Christmas Eve? For Tim Allen, who plays Scott Calvin, it's a comic catastrophe when he surprises Santa in the act. But when Santa disappears, leaving his suit behind, Scott dons Santa's duds, and he and his son find themselves at the North Pole meeting Santa's elf Judy. That's where Scott discovers there's a slight problem—in fact he discovers The Santa Clause in Walt Disney Pictures' hilarious new holiday comedy that co-stars Paige Tamada.

his new star. Tryon went on to appear in the Disney feature Moon Pilot, but it was perhaps his most well-known role as The Cardinal, for director Otto Preminger, that convinced him he didn't want to be an actor. The autocratic Preminger was a domineering perfectionist, and Tryon found acting becoming a painful experience—so he quit acting and turned to writing. A talented writer, his books, the psychological thrillers The Other and Harvest Home, plus the Hollywood-themed Crown Heads and All That Glitters, soon climbed best-seller lists. Today, Tryon is better known as a writer than as an actor—and that's the way he would have wanted it. Tom Tryon passed away in 1991 at the age of 65.

TIM CONSIDINE & DAVID STOLLERY OF SPIN AND MARTY

Spin and Marty was one of the most popular segments produced for the original Mickey Mouse Club. Kids all over the country grew up with TIM CONSIDINE, who played Spin, and DAVID STOLLERY, who played Marty. The two young actors had no idea of the impact of the show at the time, but today they fondly recall their years as hands on the Triple R dude ranch. After Spin and Marty completed production, Tim Considine remained at Disney for a few years, playing one of the title roles in The Hardy Boys, opposite Tommy Kirk, on the Mickey Mouse Club, then appearing in The Shaggy Dog and in The Swamp Fox TV mini-series. After leaving Disney, Considine played James Roosevelt in the film Sunrise at Campobello and spent several years on television as the eldest of Fred MacMurray's kids in My Three Sons. He went on to write and direct, then produce, both motion pictures and television. Considine has also worked as a photographer and written books and articles. David Stollery went on to act in two Disney features, Westward Ho, The Wagons! and Ten Who Dared. Not satisfied with an acting career, David went to college to study design. He worked as an automotive designer for General Motors before moving to Toyota, where he helped design the Celica. Today Stollery heads his own design firm, Industrial Design Research, which is involved in creating a new sport car, the Arex. Both Tim and David are married and live in southern California. Considine sums up his Spin and Marty experience: "Nothing I have ever done and possibly nothing I will ever accomplish in the future could touch as many lives and bring as much pleasure to as many people as did Spin and Marty."

This Holiday Season

Eliminate the negative, accentuate the positive

he holidays have a way of creeping up on you. Suddenly there's too much to do and too little time. Yet what we'll remember won't be the chaos or the crazed, last-minute shopping trips. We'll treasure all the little things—the magical, twinkling lights on the Christmas tree; the awe in children's faces as they light a Menorah; the crackling fire, with friends and family gathered 'round the hearth; nibbling on fanciful home-made cookies—we'll even come to treasure those frantic eleventh-hour failures when Santa's adult helpers tried to decipher directions for putting together a new trike.

As a new year beckons, the challenge for all of us is to find ways of capturing those same special moments all year long. Many of the joys we savor during the holidays can be ours during the other seasons—if we try. We hope "Families" gives you some bright ideas not just for the holidays, but for getting 1995 off to a great start.

TOGETHER MAKE IT A HOLIDAY TO REMEMBER

Making memories—that's what holiday activity should be about, says David E. Monn, author of 365 Ways to Prepare for Christmas (HarperCollins, $16.95) and a New York-based designer.

"The holidays offer families a break in the day-to-day routine and a special chance to share good times," says Monn. "But it takes some thought."

For busy families, planning and executing a terrific holiday season is often easier said than done. Yet Monn says making the holidays special doesn't have to be exhausting and expensive. There are a host of simple ways to create a dream holiday.

Monn says traditions are an essential feature of family celebrations—but he encourages parents not to feel that they have to stick with often hard-to-replicate approaches from their own childhoods. "It's OK to create a new tradition; the kids will find it exciting and fun."

Traditions can range from the rituals involved in putting up the Christmas tree to making clove-studded pomander balls, stringing popcorn, or starting a neighborhood pre-Christmas progressive dinner.

Monn's favorite family tradition has been an annual family time capsule, opened no earlier than five years after its creation. Wishes, predictions, photos, home-made audio and video tapes, treasured recipes, newspaper clippings, drawings, and poems can be placed in a special box, dated, and stored in the basement, garage, or a closet. "It can be difficult, sometimes, bringing up emotions from the past, but creating the capsule and opening old capsules is a wonderful, special time for our family," Monn observes.

Sometimes parents find the sheer volume of tasks that need to be done before the celebrating begins can diminish their holiday joy. Monn encourages families to involve the children in everything possible, from making gift paper and wrapping presents, to decorating cookies and name tags. "Find projects that don't need a lot of supervision, set up the supplies, and let the children enjoy themselves," he says.

COOKING WITH CARE

IT'S EASY TO CUT CORNERS while preparing food. But taking the time to ensure safe food handling practices plays a critical role in proper cooking technique—particularly today, as our information on food as a source of infection and illness continues to grow.

First of all, everyone involved in kitchen chores should commence with clean hands. When handling raw meat (beef, lamb, pork, poultry) or fish, select a work area, knives and other implements you'll need and keep them separate from other utensils and foods. Do not handle other implements or foods unless you've first washed your hands with hot, soapy water. When finished, wash all utensils, work areas, and your hands with hot, soapy water. (Much of the packaged meat or poultry available in supermarkets today comes with instructions on proper handling and cooking techniques.)

When using eggs, purchase only Grade AA or Grade A eggs and use within three to five weeks of purchase. Never use dirty or cracked eggs. Never eat raw dough that contains uncooked egg yolks (as in this issue's recipe for gingerbread people). For recipes calling for uncooked egg whites (such as last issue's pumpkin chiffon pie), a substitute product is available: Wilton Enterprises' "Meringue Powder." Two teaspoons of Meringue Powder combined with one tablespoon of water equals one egg white. (Meringue Powder is available nationally at department stores such as J.C. Penney and at Lechters.)

And always remember: properly store and refrigerate all foods—cooked and uncooked.

Family photographs need to be protected from light and humidity.

Monn also use lists and basic organizational skills to reduce the anxiety that peaks just before Christmas. Just jotting down gift ideas weeks in advance, planning errands, and itemizing what needs to be done can reduce the strain that drains the energy and pleasure from the season.

Sometimes simple things add a lot to the season. Monn has a few suggestions:

- ◆ Make it a tradition to take the children to a special holiday play or performance.
- ◆ Start a collection of Christmas books, ranging from Dickens to lighter fare, and read the stories to the children at bedtime.
- ◆ Save some quiet time to sit by the fire and read aloud from a favorite Christmas story with a simple message of love, or sing favorite carols.
- ◆ Monn says the key to creating and enjoying a memorable holiday is actually quite simple: figure out what it is you love about the season—and be sure to do it.

MEMORIES PRESERVING FAVORITE PHOTOS

In an emergency, what's the first thing you'd rescue from your house?

"The family photographs" would be most people's answer.

Baby portraits, vacation snapshots, pictures of graduations, birthdays, holidays—they're all irreplaceable treasures. But many commonly-used photo albums may actually be slowly damaging your prized pictures.

Grant Romer, director of conservation and museum studies at the George Eastman House International Museum of Photography and Film, in Rochester, New York, says the biggest problems parents face is the sheer volume of their photographs. "We all have too many photographs to take good care of them all," Romer says.

To properly store all the photos in an average family's collection would be expensive, since safe storage tends to cost more than does the average album. Thus, Romer says, the first step in long-term photo preservation is to carefully select priority photographs that warrant the best and most careful storage.

Photos are fragile—they need to be protected from humidity, heat and light, says Romer. Because humidity greater than 60 percent is the chief cause of deteriorating photos, Romer recommends storing photos within three layers of protection, such as the combination of an envelope, a box and a cupboard. Just keeping a photo album in the box it came in can help preserve photos longer than if the album was stored separately.

Photographs also need to be protected from being bent, torn, or exposed to chemical activity which could change them. Romer advises avoiding glue, vinyl, scotch tape, ink, light, and some papers that are not sulfur- or acid-free.

Despite all the daunting warnings, creating a safe environment for treasured photos isn't difficult. An increasing number of companies are offering archival quality photo albums and boxes, designed to preserve negatives as well as prints.

GINGERBREAD PEOPLE

Delicious and festive, gingerbread people make great gifts when gathered into a basket, wrapped in cellophane, and tied with a ribbon.

2 1/3 cups all-purpose flour	3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) unsalted butter at room temperature
2 1/2 tsps. ground ginger	3/4 cup. firmly packed dark brown sugar
2 tsps. ground cinnamon	1/4 cup honey
1/2 tsp. baking soda	2 extra-large eggs
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground cloves

- 1 Sift first 6 ingredients into a medium bowl.
- 2 Using an electric beater, beat butter, sugar, and honey in a large bowl until fluffy
- 3 Beat in egg yolks.
- 4 Add dry ingredients; combine.
- 5 Gather dough into ball (dough will be soft).
- 6 Divide into 3 pieces, flattening each into disk.
- 7 Wrap in plastic and chill until firm, about 3 hours. (Dough can be made 2 days ahead.)
- 8 Position rack in upper third of oven and preheat to 375 degrees F.
- 9 Grease large heavy cookie sheets.
- 10 Roll 1 disk out on lightly floured surface to 1/4" thick round.
- 11 With a cookie cutter, cut out gingerbread people.
- 12 Transfer to cookie sheets, spacing 1-inch apart; remove scraps for later use.
- 13 Bake until just turning brown at edges, about 10 minutes.
- 14 Transfer to racks; cool.
- 15 Repeat with remaining dough.

Cookies can be decorated with spices such as whole cloves and coriander. Simply press faces into cookies with spoons or other kitchen utensils. If desired, an icing of 1/2 cup powdered sugar & 2 1/2 cups milk can be piped atop the cookies.

Kids in the Kitchen: Cups & Measures

HOLIDAY BAKING CAN BE A TERRIFIC opportunity to teach children the basics of measuring, an essential—and fun—cooking skill. Here are some tips: Always use standard measuring equipment. Explain the difference between dry measuring and liquid measuring, and which cups are used for each.

Show how to check liquid measurements for accuracy: place them on a flat surface and look at them at eye level. (Kids will find the concept of eye-level measuring intriguing). Brown sugar should be packed into a dry measuring cup, like making sand cakes at the beach. Flour should be lightly spooned into the exact sized dry measuring cup that is called for, and leveled off with a straight edged spatula. (Kids love leveling, too.) Sugar should be measured in dry measuring cups and leveled off with a straight-edged spatula. Baking soda, baking powder, salt and flavorings should be measured with the standard measuring spoons.

University Products, Inc., in Holyoke, Massachusetts, says consumer purchases of museum-quality storage systems make up the firm's largest growth area. "More and more families are interested in preserving photos for a long, long time."

Davis recommends photo organizers—shaped like recipe files or long shoe boxes—which are made up of archivally safe material and hold up to 900 photographs. The boxes, he says, can be used to collect photos by theme, such as childhood shots or vacations, for example.

When using albums, Davis suggests avoiding vinyl covers, black or magnetic mounting pages and traditional mounting corners, which can yellow the prints. A wide range of longer lasting alternatives are available to consumers.

No matter the storage system used, photos don't last forever. "A photo is a finite resource. The action of light will show its effect," says Romer. The industry standard for color stability in prints—the expected time before any significant color shifts occur—is between 25 and 35 years.

Future generations will have access to systems that store photos far longer than we can expect using the best materials readily available today. Romer predicts that our children will store their family photos on compact discs, which shall preserve their treasured shots indefinitely.

Good for You TIPS FOR WINTER FITNESS

There's a family fitness risk that surfaces every winter: cold temperatures, snow, wind, rain, and ice provide a million excuses to avoid being active.

Coupled with a family's busy schedule, it's easy to see how exercise can end up as a low priority especially when the weather is less than balmy. But arguments for year-round activity are persuasive.

Forty percent of children age five to eight have at least one risk factor for heart disease—obesity, high cholesterol, high blood pressure or inactivity; and only approximately 35 percent of adults exercise a minimum of three times a week, according to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, in Washington, D.C.

Sandra Perlmutter, executive director of the President's Council, suggests families should discuss what activities they can do during the winter to keep active, considering everything from programs provided by their community parks and recreation centers to creative options in their own homes.

A SURVIVAL GUIDE: SOME ASSEMBLY REQUIRED

ED IKUTA

It's 1:00 a.m. on Christmas Eve, the kids are in bed, the guests have left, and it's time to assemble the toys. Without the right tools and batteries available, you're in for an excruciating and frustrating few hours. They may be kids' toys, but the directions were written for rocket scientists from another planet. Here are some tips to prevent the ultimate Christmas disaster:

1. If you have a good place to store surprises, don't save assembly till the last minute. Plan to spend a few nights before Christmas Eve putting together whatever you can. And sometimes parts are omitted or toys don't work correctly; early set-up gives you time to regroup.
2. A few days before Christmas Eve, look over the boxes, make a list of needed batteries—and get them. Buy extra so there will be plenty on Christmas Day.
3. Have the necessary tools on hand; check the instruction sheets for itemized lists.
4. Make sure you have the film and camera batteries you need to capture the fun of Christmas morning.
5. Plan ahead for a quick and easy breakfast: fresh orange juice, sweet rolls, and fruit are easy to nibble throughout the chaos of Christmas morning.
6. Have two large trash bags ready, one for recyclable papers and one for the other trash.
7. Save all receipts—just in case.

Many communities offer aerobics, dance, basketball, swimming, tennis, and other indoor programs all winter long, often geared to a wide range of ages and located right in the neighborhood. Some families prefer to develop their own exercise alternatives, perhaps investing in a basement Ping-Pong table or in exercise equipment. "Activity is not only about riding a bike, running a marathon or being on a basketball court," she points out.

Perlmutter encourages parents to find things the whole family can do together, since that will increase the likelihood of continuing to participate in a fitness activity or sport. "Research shows the chances of continuing in a fitness program increase if participants have relatives or friends encouraging them."

Perlmutter urges families with very young children not to be dissuaded from seeking family-oriented recreational activities. "The younger you start a child in fitness activities, the better your chances of having a child who is used to activity," she says. "Ideally, exercise becomes habit-forming, and the children expect it as a part of the routine, the way they count on dinner and brushing their teeth."

Phillip Wiethorn, spokesperson for the President's Council, says even the youngest child can enjoy chasing a rubber ball on the living room carpet—and soon will be throwing it back for a parent to run after.

Wiethorn also finds it fun just to bundle the children up and take them for a one to two-mile walk in the snow or rain. "Just being out in the beauty of nature, getting some exercise, is inspiring," he says.

SWALLOWING PILLS—WHEN ARE KIDS READY?

WHEN ARE CHILDREN READY to graduate from liquid medication to chewables, and then to caplets or pills? Pharmacist Barbara Korberly, director of medical new products with McNeil Consumer Products Company in Fort Washington, Pennsylvania, says parents have to make that assessment by reading product directions and carefully trying out each stage with their kids.

© 1994 R. KENTON NELSON/ISIS

Generally, children start using chewable medications at age two. By age eight to 10, most kids have no difficulty swallowing small caplets, Korberly says. To teach a child to swallow a pill, start with a small and slippery one, and put it at the back of the tongue. Tell the child to swallow from a full glass of water, while counting something, like the number of books on a top shelf, for distraction. If unsuccessful, go with chewables and try again in a few months.

DEEP-DISH TURKEY POT PIE WITH CORNMEAL BISCUIT CRUST

If you make the filling a day ahead, this dish comes together in no time. Serves 6-8

FILLING

- 1 14 1/2-ounce can of low-salt chicken broth
- 20 pearl or boiling onions (1/2 inch in diameter)
- 1 1/2 cups diced carrots (1/2 inch dice)
- 1 1/2 cups diced celery (1/2 inch dice)
- 8 ounces (approx. 8 slices) bacon, coarsely chopped
- 4 cups cooked turkey cubes (1 1/2 - 3/4 inch cubes)
- 1 cup frozen corn kernels, thawed
- 3 large green onions, chopped
- 5 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 7 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 1/2 cups half and half
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves

CRUST

- 1 3/4 cups all purpose flour
- 1/4 cup cornmeal
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 6 tablespoons chilled unsalted butter, diced
- 3/4 cup chilled buttermilk
- 1 beaten egg (for glaze)

FOR FILLING: Bring broth to boil in a heavy medium saucepan over medium heat. Add onions, cover pan, and simmer 3 minutes. Add carrots and celery, cover, and cook until all vegetables are done, about 6 minutes. Using a slotted spoon, transfer vegetables to a large bowl; reserve broth.

Saute bacon in the same saucepan until brown and crisp. Transfer all but two tablespoons of the bacon bits to the bowl with vegetables. Add the turkey, corn, and all but 1 tablespoon green onions. (Reserve 2 tablespoons bacon and 1 tablespoon onion for biscuit crust.)

Melt 5 tablespoons of butter in a heavy saucepan over medium-high heat. Add flour and whisk 2 minutes. Gradually whisk in half and half and reserved cooking broth. Cook until sauce thickens and comes to a boil; boil 1 minute, whisking constantly. Mix lemon juice and clove into sauce. Season generously with salt and pepper. Add turkey and vegetable mixture to sauce and blend well. Transfer to a 2 1/2 quart baking dish or casserole.

The filling can be prepared 1 day ahead. Cool, cover, and refrigerate. Bring filling to simmer over medium heat, thinning with up to 1/2 cup additional broth if sauce is too thick and transfer to a 2 1/2 quart baking dish before continuing.

FOR CRUST: Position rack in center of oven and preheat to 400 degrees F. Blend dry ingredients in a large bowl. Add butter and rub until the size of very small peas. Gradually mix in buttermilk, tossing until moist clumps form. Add reserved bacon and green onions. Gently knead dough together.

On a floured surface roll out dough to scant 1/2-inch thickness. Cut dough piece to fit top of baking dish. If desired, roll out dough scraps to 1/4 inch thickness and cut out decorative shapes. Place dough over hot filling in baking dish, tuck in at edges. Brush with glaze. Make several deep cuts in dough for steam vents. Bake until heated through and crust is a deep golden brown; about 25 minutes.

A Puppet Springs To Life

With Snow White Walt Disney and his animators had pioneered a new art form. For their second animated feature film they would aim for even higher levels of artistic achievement.

BY BOB THOMAS

AS MONEY FLOWED in from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Walt Disney resisted the cry of distributors and theater owners: Give us more dwarfs. Walt instead used his new prosperity to commence work on more animated features. Pinocchio came first.

It seemed a natural: an internationally recognized story, a puppet hero who could only be realized in animation, a host of colorful characters to choose from. With all the pioneering work they had done on Snow White, the story men and animators should have enjoyed smooth sailing with Pinocchio.

For a time it seemed that way. The sprawling tale by Carlo Collodi was trimmed to manageable length, major characters were designed, sequences storyboarded, and animation begun.

Six months later Walt Disney called a halt to production.

"It isn't working," he said.

Walt recognized the lack of endearing characters that had made Snow White such an instant success. To remind the audience that Pinocchio was a puppet come to life, he had been animated with simple, almost automated movement: his face lacked expression. And lacking a conscience, Pinocchio performed bad deeds with total innocence. He possessed none of the boyish humanity that would induce sympathy in his many travails.

Pinocchio was redesigned to make him rounder and more boylike. His nature was altered so that he did bad things only when influenced by evil companions. Because he was more or less a blank, Pinocchio needed to be surrounded by lively, flamboyant characters. The most important invention was Jiminy Cricket.

Collodi had made the cricket an incidental character who tried to advise Pinocchio to change his ways and then was crushed under the puppet's foot. In the film, Jiminy Cricket now played a major role as the boy's conscience, trying to steer him back every time he took a wrong turn. Ward Kimball animated Jiminy, making him an appealing sage instead of an ugly insect and using carefully selected camera angles so he wouldn't seem tiny. Voiced by Cliff Edwards, who sang the hit "When You Wish Upon a Star" and "Give a Little Whistle," Jiminy provided the unifying element for Pinocchio.

The Disney artists made ample use of the new toys that had been developed for Snow White. The multiplane camera facilitated an opening scene for Pinocchio that matched the intricate camera movements of the most skilled live-action directors. (The multiplane camera achieved a sense of deep perspective in animation by inserting a number of glass layers or planes between the cel and the camera lens.) The scene sailed over the rooftops of the sleeping village, employing as many as 12 different planes. But when the scene ran up a bill of $25,000, Walt blew the whistle and cautioned against such intricate camera work in the future.

Disney was determined that Pinocchio would be an even greater achievement than Snow White, and he devoted all his energies to the new production. During a March 1938 story meeting, he expounded

After six months of production,
Walt called a halt
to Pinocchio.
"It isn't working,"
he said.

on the sequence in which Pinocchio is swallowed by the whale, Monstro—a sequence that would call for extensive use of the multiplane camera.

"Pinocchio should use every ounce of force he has in swimming to escape the whale," Walt insisted. "This should be built to terrific suspense...."

"The old man [Geppetto, already swallowed by Monstro] should get excited when the whale goes after the fish. When the fish start coming in, he could look at the whale's mouth and say 'Tuna!' Pinocchio could be swimming with the fish and [Monstro] swallows them all. As the old man is fishing inside the whale, he pulls out one fish after another, and finally pulls out Pinocchio without realizing it. The cat [Figaro] sees Pinocchio, gets excited and meows to the old man, but the old man goes on fishing. Finally Pinocchio calls 'Father!' The old man recognizes who it is and shouts 'Pinocchio! My son!'

"The underwater stuff is a swell place for the multiplane, diffusing and putting haze in between, with shafts of light coming down," Walt concluded. "I would like to see a lot of multiplane on this."

Pinocchio, Walt Disney's second animated feature, was released in early 1940. Its technical marvels were commended by the critics, but the film seemed to lack the human appeal of Snow White. Theater business was disappointing. Moreover the start of World War II in Europe had wiped out 45 percent of the Disney market.

The result was a million dollar loss on Pinocchio. The film, a consummate artistic triumph, had cost the studio a staggering $2.6 million to create.

A Celebration of Disney Animation

WITH THE WORLD TELEVISION premiere of Pinocchio on January 1, The Disney Channel inaugurates a very special year-long festival: a celebration of the classic animated films created by The Walt Disney Studios.

Every month another Disney animated feature film will appear on our Magical World of Disney, the home of classic and contemporary Disney family entertainment (Sunday at 7:00 p.m., 6:00 Central). The offerings span the history of the Disney animated classics, ranging from Pinocchio and Dumbo (the second and fifth of the Studios' animated features) to The Rescuers and The Rescuers Down Under. Plus as part of this animation celebration come two world television premieres—recent smash hits—whose titles we can't divulge yet.

So stay tuned: The Disney Channel is your exclusive home for classic Disney animation appearing on the Magical World of Disney.

Meet Marzena Godecki THE DISNEY CHANNEL'S OCEAN GIRL

Learn more about Ocean Girl's heroine—Marzena Godecki will be online with Prodigy on January 16 at 8:00 p.m. ET (7:00 Central, 5:00 Pacific).

We've got three weeks left of filming on the second season," says Marzena Godecki, the poised 16-year-old who stars in Ocean Girl. It was October—spring in Australia—when we talked with Marzena, on location at Port Douglas, in North Queensland.

Born in Poland, Marzena was four when her family emigrated to Australia. Other quick bio facts: her favorite food is Japanese ("though we eat a lot of Indian; it's Mom and Dad's favorite"); her favorite bands are Pearl Jam, Soundgarden, and Stone Temple Pilots; and no, she doesn't have a boyfriend but she'll soon apply for her learner's permit to drive. "I look forward to coming to the States in January," she adds, "to Los Angeles." Disneyland, needless to say, is part of her itinerary.

Disney Channel Magazine:

Tell us about the training you went through to play Neri.

Marzena: When I first auditioned, they took me to a local bay in Melbourne and just dunked me. They wanted to see if I was comfortable in the water. After I got the role, I had a swimming program and an exercise program for my cardiovascular fitness. I went up to Port Douglas two weeks early, and did my diving course—learning scuba and how to buddy breathe to create the illusion of Neri's underwater skills. I did extra practice after the first season; the second season's been much easier.

TDCM: What adventures have you had diving on the Great Barrier Reef?

Marzena: It's been fantastic! Once a pod of Minke whales came up to the boat. We just jumped in and swam around. I wish we had our whale replica in the water that day, to see what they thought of that. We swam with dolphins. Once I was bit by a fish, by a cod. It was a good-sized fish. It wasn't such a big deal—though it did seem so at the time!

TDCM: You also film in a beautiful rainforest, a wilderness area.

Marzena: It's stunning. I love the animals I've met, snakes and wombats and wallabies. We been able to visit places where people are rarely allowed. When you go up there you learn how important it is to preserve the rainforest. There's very little of it left.

TDCM: Tell us a little about the second season—what's in store for Neri?

Marzena: The relationships will change and grow. Neri has new friends now, and they're trying to solve the mystery of who she is and where she came from, because after all, it's a mystery to Neri as well. But I won't reveal any more of the plot than that!

TDCM: You were studying acting and dance in school before you won the role of Neri. Have you thought of your future beyond Ocean Girl?

Marzena: Not really, I would like to continue with acting—I haven't been studying dance as much. I'm just hoping to finish my education. My education is very important to me.

BILLY JOEL

OF DREAMS

*Billy Joel offers up a potent show
spotlighting tunes from his most recent album and a selection of his greatest hits.*

By Mr. Bonzai

IT MAKES IT ALL WORTHWHILE—it's really what the job is about: to entertain the audience," says Billy Joel. And this is just what he does for the ardent crowd in Frankfurt, Germany, at the close of the European leg of his acclaimed 1994 "River Of Dreams" tour. In the country where his father was born, Joel offers up a potent show spotlighting tunes from his most recent album and a selection of hits from a phenomenal career spent at the top of the charts.

Born in Long Island, New York, Billy Joel studied piano as a child and formed his first group, The Echoes, at the age of 14. His recording career began in the late '60s; by 1970 he was rocking hard with a group called Attila. When Joel's first solo album, Cold Spring Harbor (1972), proved a commercial disappointment he headed out for the West Coast. Hobbled there by contract legalities, he began performing in bars and hotels as Bill Martin.

It was from the lounge scene that Billy Joel was nabbed by Columbia records, and in 1973 he released Piano Man. The title track made the Top 30 and the album went platinum. Billy Joel ends his Disney Channel special with the song that launched his career. It's a testimony to Joel's worldly appeal that when he pulls back from the microphone to let the German audience sing the chorus, they do so in flawless English. They know the song by heart.

Joel opens the show with 1993's hard driving "No Man's Land," backed by a muscular band tempered with the feminine touch of Crystal Taliefero on backing vocals, percussion, guitar and sax. Other hits from the Dreams album include the haunting "Shades Of Grey" and the masterful "River Of Dreams":

In the middle of the night
I go walking in my sleep
Through the desert of truth
To the river so deep..."

Produced by Danny "Kootch" Kortchmar, Joel's latest album powered him through a tumultuous time in his life. "On this particular album I didn't go too far outside of my own experiences," he says. "The album unfolded as the material was written. Each song kicked off another song, so there was a scenario. There's a beginning, and a middle, and an end to this thing that was pretty much based on my own life, and my own conclusions, and my own trauma. I was comfortable saying 'I' because I thought I had something pretty interesting to say."

Backtracking through his catalogue, Joel gives a stirring performance of 1982's "Pressure," complete with a spectacular light show punctuated by appropriate brilliance that blasts out at the audience. He also performs "Allentown" (1983), a blue collar song which touched deeply the working class consciousness of America and even prompted 16,000 of Allentown's citizens to petition Joel to include their steel mill town in his tour that year.

Both of these songs were originally produced by the legendary Phil Ramone, known most recently for his "Duets" with Frank Sinatra. When Joel was asked what Phil Ramone contributed to his work, he called it "The X Factor." Ramone, who produced the very first Compact Disc (for Joel), explained the relationship between artist and producer:

"It means being very honest and extremely objective about what you hear. It means having a relationship with the artist. The song process is so personal, and I shared so much of that with him. Every time we started a new album, we asked 'How do you get the motors going?'" Ramone also produced other memorable hits reborn in this concert, including "My Life" (from the #1 1978 album 52nd Street) and "Only the Good Die Young."

Billy Joel, who celebrates in his own inimitable style the influence of artists such as James Brown, Otis Redding, the Drifters and the Four Seasons, even throws in a rollicking homage to the Beatles with "A Hard Day's Night." By the end of this show, the end of an exhausting tour, Joel is tired and pleased. He grabs a towel, wipes away the sweat, and bids a fond farewell, "Wiedersehen, Deutschland."

AWARD-WINNING MUSIC SPECIALS ON DISNEY NIGHT TIME

THIS PAST SEPTEMBER, The Disney Channel won two Emmy Awards for its contemporary music specials. Receiving Emmys were Trisha Yearwood: The Song Remembers When and Irish Music and America...A Musical Migration. (The Channel also won an Emmy in 1993 for Harry Connick Jr.: The New York Big Band Concert.) Disney Night Time's tradition of presenting the finest in contemporary music continues in 1995. Among the highlights this year are the world premieres of two new Going Home specials. Elton John: Going Home boasts a performance from the composer's searing concert at the Greek Theatre this past summer. And in Kenny Rogers: Going Home, country's original cross-over star reflects on a career that has ranged from rock and pop to Nashville stardom. Also coming in 1995: a stunning world premiere special with Aretha Franklin, the "Queen of Soul" plus The Sound of Julie Andrews, an extraordinary concert starring Julie Andrews in an evening of classic Broadway show tunes.

AMERICAN TEACHER AWARDS

THE FRANK G. WELLS AWARD: HONORING AN EXEMPLARY LIFE

THERE'S A SPECIAL NEW MOMENT in this year's American Teacher Awards—the first presentation of the Frank G. Wells Award. The award is named in honor of the late Frank G. Wells, a true Renaissance man who keenly believed in and lived a life committed to high ideals. As Walt Disney Company Chairman Michael Eisner noted: "In honor of Frank, we established the Frank G. Wells Award. It will be given every year at The American Teacher Awards to that individual, outside of the teaching profession, whose life of civility, compassion, integrity, humility, and respect for all humanity provides a compass for human behavior as Frank Wells did. In essence, such an individual is a teacher by example."

SUNDAY NIGHT SHOWCASE

GREAT WONDERS OF THE WORLD: ALPINE ADVENTURE

MILLENIA AGO, the landmass we know as Italy broke free of the African continent and drifted north, colliding with Europe. This meeting of tectonic plates created a vast upheaval in the Earth's surface—an upheaval that eons of wind, water, and glaciation carved into the Alps. Today the Alps form a semi-circular belt of mountain ranges that are approximately 600 miles long and 200 miles wide. These mighty mountains—witnesses to the grand forces that shape the planet—sprawl from France to Italy, Switzerland, Southern Germany and Austria. (Trivia note: the Alps are named for the high altitude meadows found at tree line.) In Great Wonders of the World: Alpine Adventure, you can enjoy an armchair tour of Europe's most breathtaking scenic wonders—plus experience the cultures and peoples who have been formed by these awesome mountain ranges. A world premiere, Alpine Adventure continues The Disney Channel's award-winning series of Great Wonders of the World.

BONUS! THURSDAY

MEAT LOAF MEETS THE ABOMINABLE SNOW MAN

THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO TRUTH to the rumor that film exists of rock 'n' roll superstar Meat Loaf singing "I'd Do Anything for Love (but I Won't Do That)" to one of Tibet's infamous Abominable Snowmen, collectively known as "Yeti." True, there is a film in which Meat Loaf co-stars with a Yeti, and this is that film—but To Catch a Yeti is not a musical. Actually Meat Loaf plays a big game hunter named Big Jake, who bags a live Yeti and ends up selling it to a wealthy New York snob who gives the animal, poor thing, to his twerpy, contemptible little snot of a son (named Wesley, don't you know?). Cut to the chase: Yeti escapes in Manhattan and heads for those Himalayan mountains. Will the poor Yeti make it home? Don't ask us. By the way, the Yeti is named Hank. He's short, warm, fuzzy. Meat Loaf ain't.

ROGER DALTRY: THE MUSIC OF THE WHO

AFTER THE FIRE, THE FIRE STILL BURNS," sings Roger Daltrey in a remarkable concert from Carnegie Hall. After the fire, the fire still burns—it's been years since the Who have functioned as a real live rock and roll band, apart from the odd Tommy concerts. But Roger Daltrey brings age, experience, and insight to the Who's classic songs, proving that if Pete Townshend was the group's driving force as composer, it is Roger Daltrey who remains the music's finest interpreter. Joining Daltrey for this exploration of classic rock are his old bandmates John Entwistle and Mr. Pete Townshend himself. (One does wonder if Roger Daltrey is the Dorian Gray of rock.) There are two young lions on hand, too: Eddie Vedder of Pearl Jam and Sinéad O'Connor. One musical highlight: Daltrey singing Townshend backed by the penny whistles and other Irish instruments of the Chieftains—a combination that throws a refreshing light on one of rock's main influences. And yes, Mr. Daltrey does demonstrate once and for all that he is the definitive Tommy.

THE MAKING OF RUDYARD KIPLING'S THE JUNGLE BOOK

IT'S NOT THE DISNEY ANIMATED CLASSIC—rather this world premiere special takes you behind the scenes of Walt Disney Pictures' new live-action film, an adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's novel. Whereas the earlier Disney animated film focused on the young Mowgli's education by the animals of the jungle, this movie begins with Mowgli's life before the jungle, then follows him as he meets and joins his animal brothers—and as he tries to re-enter civilization 15 years later. Reunited with childhood friend Kitty Brydon, Mowgli is quick to learn that the civilized world is far more savage than life in the bush. Playing Mowgli is Jason Scott Lee; the film co-stars Lena Headley as Kitty Brydon and also features Sam Neill and John Cleese.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

Four World Premieres On The Disney Channel

IN IRELAND, THE DISNEY CHANNEL shoots a four-hour miniseries. Meanwhile, a continent away, production begins on a new Disney Channel Premiere film with locations in Oregon and Los Angeles. And two very different music legends prepare two new Going Home music specials.

INNOCENCE & EVIL SIDE BY SIDE

In his day, Charles Dickens was wildly popular and widely read on both sides of the Atlantic. He was also a master at creating memorable characters. A trio of his finest come to life in The Disney Channel's four-hour adaptation of The Old Curiosity Shop. As "Little Nell," Sally Walsh is a starry-eyed innocent while Tom Courtenay portrays Quilp. More than the villain of the story, Quilp is a moral monster.

AN EPIC QUEST

A knight errant is trapped by a sorceress in The Four Diamonds, a new Disney Channel Premiere Film that blends a fantasy-adventure quest with a true tale of transcendental courage.

THE ULTIMATE ELTON JOHN: A MUSICAL EVENING WITH A ROCK LEGEND

On a September evening at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles Elton John turned in an incandescent performance. He sang old songs and new songs, his favorites and your favorites. He spun syncopated solos with synchronous melodies. He jammed with hip percussionist Ray Cooper. The result was music, as the poet wrote, "felt so deeply it was not heard at all. But you are the music while the music lasts." You'll see it all on Elton John: Going Home.

A GAMBLER IN THE HOUSE OF BLUES

In his career Kenny Rogers has traveled from rock & pop (remember The First Edition?) to country—he belongs to that first generation of country artists to cross over to mainstream appeal. The Gambler retraces his life and career in Kenny Rogers: Going Home, which also boasts a concert performance recorded at LA's House of Blues.

"Mom, he's looking at me!"

"She started it!"

Sometimes, getting there isn't half the fun. Like when it's a long trip. With kids. But the Pontiac® Trans Sport could change all that. With our available seven-passenger modular seating, everyone gets their own bucket seat. One or two built-in child seats are available, too.

Trans Sport's available 3800 V6 engine makes it the most powerful front-wheel-drive minivan in its class.* And it has an exclusive power sliding door that opens with the push of a button.* Plus anti-lock brakes and airbag come standard. No wonder R.L. Polk† found that Trans Sport has earned the highest owner loyalty rating of any minivan.

To learn more, call 1-800-2PONTIAC for more information.

Of course, we can't guarantee that the kids won't get cranky. But Trans Sport® is a great way to keep your little creatures comfortable.
